SC orders release of SALNs of all members of judiciary

By Marlon Ramon

WIDELY regarded as the "gods of Padre Faura," the justices of the Supreme Court of the land are now ready to answer the people's call for transparency in the judiciary and other governmental offices.

A day after Renato Corona was evicted as Chief Justice by the Senate impeachment court, the Supreme Court yesterday directed all justices and judges to make public their statement of assets, liabilities and net worth (SALN) for 2011.

The tribunal's decision was an apparent answer to the public's clamor after Corona was found guilty of violating the Constitution by failing to disclose $2.4 million in foreign-currency bank deposits and more than P80 million in local-currency accounts.

Asked if the Supreme Court considered the Senate ruling immediately necessary, acting Supreme Court spokesperson Ms.

P-Noy thanks, hails reviled prosecutors

By Norman Bernardino and Gil C. Cabacungan

THEY may have been reviled repeatedly for coming to the trial unprepared, but members of the House prosecution panel were the conviction of impeached Chief Justice Renato Corona and that's all President Aquino needed to keep peace and gratitude on them.

In his post-impeachment address last night, Mr. Aquino singled out the lead prosecutors, Solicitor General Noel Tague, who he said stood his ground despite being subjected to verbal abuse, and Tinoco Noma Reg. Rodolfo Ferillas, who he said clarified issues that had gotten muddled.

"Our prosecutors' trust, led by Congressmen Noel Tague, who didn't back down despite being reviled and threatened, I also thank," Mr. Aquino said.

"I also thank Congressman Rudy Ferillas, who made clear

Guilty verdict based on a case of dismissal 15 yrs ago

By Frimston Lim and Germaine Lacorte

MANILA CITY, Divina del Norte—Senators yesterday cited her dismissal in their decision to convict and remove Renato Corona as Chief Justice.

Delia Flores, a former court interpreter here, who lost her job 15 years ago partly because she did not declare that she owned a market stall, is elated that the ruling of the Senate impeachment court on Thursday led to the dismissal of Corona.

"I was very happy that even a rich and powerful person like the former Chief Justice could still be punished for committing a wrongdoing. Not just the poor and common people like me," Flores said yesterday.

She said she was "proud of the 12 senators judges who convicted Corona."

"I lost my job for not declaring a business interest worth just several thousand pesos. It would be just as fair that he be removed from office for hiding millions of pesos worth of property," Flores said.

Enrile cites defense's blunders

By Cathy C. Yarns

CHIEF JUSTICE Renato Corona was convicted not because of the prosecutorial skills of his accusers but the blunders committed by his lawyers.

In separate interviews, senators listed the following errors: The prosecution of Ombudsman Conchita Carpio Morales as a hostile witness; the "staged" walkout of Corona that involved the fire of senator-judges; the conditions that Corona imposed on his accusers after his first offer of a waiver; and, the discussion of the sale of the Blue-Golden Enterprises Inc. (BGEI) shares worth P34.7 million to Corona's daughter Carla Castillo.

for P28,800.

Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile admitted when asked whether the House prosecutors brought about the "guilty" vote of 20 senator-judges against Corona.

Appeal to SC will spark crisis, JPE warns ex-CJ

By Christian Y. Eggers

A DAY after the Senate impeachment court issued a landmark ruling removing Chief Justice Renato Corona, Senate President Juan Ponce Enrile yesterday warned his accusers questioning the decision in the Supreme Court.

Enrile, who presided over the 44-day impeachment trial, and majority viewed it as its conclusion last Thursday, maintained that the Senate had "the sole power to try and decide all impeachment cases" under the Constitution.

"I will say this very frankly and I hope they understand—if they (the Supreme Court) will question the parallelism of the impeachment court and reverse our decision, we will defy them," he said in an interview with ANC where he kicked off a series of TV and radio interviews, apparently in explanation for the verdict.

Brady breezes through commission

By Cindy Teasdale

THE COMMISSION ON Appointments (COA) has waived the requirement for the publication of Senate Brady's appointment as ambassador to China, after 100 members within an hour of opening discussions on her appointment.

Sen. Sergio Osmeña II said he would not object to Malabang's choice of Brady, a former diplomat who retired in 2005, as ambassador to Beijing. "Because we have a critical national matter that would have to be attended to, I do served these clearly for four years."

Osmeña then blocked the appointment of President Aquino's long-time chief of ambassadors, business man Rodrigo Lio, for failing to answer questions about the Philippines' relations with China in the disputed territories in the West Philippine Sea (South China Sea).

The current disagreement over naming (South China Sea) stood off the rest of the COA's business. Brady has been named as ambassador to China, but the COA has not yet voted to confirm her.

Osmeña's report on the commission's meeting to confirm Brady "while the rest is left," but Malabang's changes in mind and appointment were not under consideration, he said.

Sen. Francis Isern, voting chief of the COA, said the commission's meeting to confirm Brady "while the rest is left," but Malabang's changes in mind and appointment were not under consideration, he said.

GA member Rep. Romeo Trono, however, questioned the haste with which Brady's appointment was being taken up.

"There is a big difference between the problem between the Philippines and China? What is a matter of one week here today and next week?" he asked.

Isern warned that the number of Chinese boats in Patung Bay continued to rise. "The coast could go higher as we delay appointing an ambassador," he said.

House Speaker Benigno Aquino III, another commission member, stated that China had indicated its support for Brady's appointment.

"The Chinese government through its ambassador welcomed the appointment. It is something that is not normal, for a government to express its support of a candidate in advance," he said.

"I think that shows the importance that the Chinese government is putting (on this matter). And we need a competent and well-respected ambassador to Beijing as soon as possible," Aquino said.

Brady was eventually called before the COA members.

Under oath, she talked of plans to "be resident" for ongoing relations between the two countries.

Brady said there was a need to "turn off the fire" so both countries could "talk and find a solution in the problem."

P-Noy to see Andrew, not the Queen

By John L. Lopez

PRESIDENT Aquino makes a few official visits to the United Kingdom next week on a mission to promote the Philippines as an investment "safe haven" for European investors and a "hot place" for British tourists.

The President's London visit, scheduled for June 4 to 6, comes in the midst of the UK's year-long celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Elizabeth II, marking the 60th anniversary of the British monarch's accession to the throne.

There will be no audience with the Queen in Mr. Aquino's crowded three-day schedule that will include meetings with Prime Minister David Cameron, Prince Andrew, the Duke of York, and top British officials.

According to Elizabeth Buchanan, assistant secretary at the Department of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Aquino's visit should put the Philippines back on the radar of European investors.

"That is a historic moment because for the first time, and in this instance under the leadership of the United Kingdom, we are looking for alternative places, safe havens, as you know, China is a crisis going on in Europe, and now they are looking at Asia," Buchanan told a media briefing at Malabang yesterday.

But for some time, for Europeans, Asia usually means China, India and Singapore, she said.

Focus is on PH

That this time, the focus is on the Philippines, he said. "We are getting recognition and with this visit, I think, the Philippines will be on the radar of European investors," she said.

She said that British-Philippine relations had been interrupted with the suspension of power of Corason in 2006, or around the same time that Mr. Aquino was elected president.

"The unprecedented focus on designing Philippine-UK relations, especially in economic and technical ways that is, has even led the British government to describe the Philippines as an emerging power in East Asia," Buchanan said.

The meeting between Mr. Aquino and Cameron will touch on political and economic cooperation, the UK's participation in the International Climate Group, regional and international issues, and anti-corruption and governance practices.

Buchanan said the President will also meet with British business leaders involved in the Aquino administration's Public-Private Partnership program, noting that the UK was one of the first countries to have shown support for the PPP.

Forging a new era

She said the President's visit would center on the theme "Forging Partnerships, Forging a new era of mutual prosperity and partnership."

She said the visit was a special opportunity for the closest economic cooperation based on inspiration toward global peace, conflict resolution and combating international crime, despite people-to-people linkages, and enterprise shared values of democracy, free speech, good governance, transparency and sustainable development.

There will be no opportunity, however, for Mr. Aquino to meet the Queen, who marks the 60th year of her reign during the week of the President's visit.

But she will be offering a banquet for Mr. Aquino to be presided over by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Lord Mayor of London, Adrian Rogers, who visited Manila last week.

Mr. Aquino's only travel companion will be a meeting with the Duke of York, Prince Andrew, who will represent the Queen.

Fight Big Tobacco, urges WHO on No Tobacco Day

By Joseph R. Ury
THE WORLD Health Organization

Even WHO's powerful member states have failed to protect the people from the harm of smoking.

"The tobacco industry is showing signs of fatigue and is now at the point where it is losing people from the harm that tobacco causes and the harm that tobacco causes to the public health," said Dr. Min Young-seo, WHO regional director for the Western Pacific.

"We must make tobacco industry inaction wherever you see it... tell Big Tobacco to keep its hands off public health," the WHO official said.

Tobacco use is among the leading causes of preventable death, killing nearly six million people per year, of whom more than 500,000 are non-smokers exposed to secondhand smoke, according to the WHO.

It found 32 percent of the world's roughly one billion smokers are in the Western Pacific region, which includes the highest prevalence of smoking among men, but the trend is also increasing among women and the youth, the WHO said.

IT-Pharmaceuticals

According to the Department of Health, the Philippines has approximately 17.3 million smokers, making it one of the five largest risk factors of cardiovascular disease, cancer and other respiratory illnesses, which make up 60 percent of all the deaths in the country.

Globally, smoking caused over 500 million deaths in the 20th century. If no action is taken to control the tobacco epidemic, the annual death toll could reach one billion in the 21st century, said the WHO.

"The tobacco industry is getting more aggressive and brazen," said Shin. "On World No Tobacco Day and throughout the year, the WHO will advocate policymakers and the public about the industry's tactics and harmful substances such as the WHO Framework Convention on Tobacco Control."

The WHO FCTC is a global treaty signed by 114 countries, including the Philippines, which aims to curb tobacco use and its consequences.

The WHO generally issued the public efforts to meet their obligations under the treaty had signed a "tobacco control measure" from the tobacco industry.

The organization chief Philip Morris International's legal action against Australia under the industry's tobacco control treaty with Hong Kong on the grounds that the latter's plan packaging law infringed on its trademarked trademarks.

The WHO also noted that the tobacco industry's tactics to simply in "corporate social responsibility" programs, undermining public health laws and deceptively making people believe its products cause addiction, not being and death.

DepEd: Be sure of your school

MAKING a week before classes begin, the Department of Education reminded parents and teachers to make sure they were not enrolling in a private school that was not accredited by the government.

Education Secretary Armin Laposi ordered all regional offices to publicly display the DepEd accreditation status of all private schools within their areas.

The DepEd also has a master list of legitimate private schools posted on its website, www.dep.gov.ph.

Since beginning operations in 2008, the DepEd Office of Basic Education Accreditation has been the DepEd's central office in charge of accrediting private schools and private schools operating without permits.

"The list of private schools with permits to operate, recognize or accredit, should be posted in the regional offices and division offices, municipal halls and other conspicuous places," said Laposi.

"We encourage parents to check whether the private school where they intend to enroll their child has the necessary accreditation from the department so they can make an informed decision about their child's education," he added.

Laposi said sending unaccredited schools would give students a false sense of security or diploma may not be recognized upon admission in another school. News Outpost

Los Baños: On the road to big business

THE 1,000-METER MT. MAILING is an active volcano that grows on several Laguna towns and parts of Batangas province.

By Marko Gato
Los Baños, Laguna

OFFICIALS from the local government and the University of the Philippines Los Baños (UPLB) have laid down plans that will transform this academic town into a budding economic zone.

But both the government and the university maintained that such undertaking should adhere to environmental protection policies, as it is also how under the Mt. Mailing Forest Reserve, a 4,264-hectare natural tropical savannah teeming with thousands of plant species, is located.

In a recent meeting in Manila, the local government began drafting the 10-year tourism master plan that includes constructing hotels, additional restaurants and world-class facilities and structures that will draw in tourists.

The master plan also includes setting up a cable-car system along the Mailing woods, rehabilitating the heritage site in the town proper, and restoring the local spa and hot spring resorts.

Incidentally, UPLB's Robert Geronzo said Los Baños would need around P200 million worth of investments from the private sector to get the ball rolling.

1M visitors a year

Geronzo said close to a million people each year go to Los Baños, known for its hot springs and hot air. Aside from UPLB, also located in the town are 32 schools and institutions, including the International Rice Research Institute.

But one problem, noted during the meeting, was that there are only two hotels and a number of restaurants to accommodate the visitors.

"We even have to bring out visitors' necessities to Manila only because we do not have a convenient source (in Los Baños)," said Geronzo, who is in charge of the UPLB Botanic Garden, Parks and Recreation Division.

Los Baños, with a registered population of 137,000, is classified as a first-class municipality although the bulk of its income is derived from the service sector and real property tax collection.

Despite the town's potentials, Geronzo and the bulk of business, such as hotels and restaurants, leaders a drinking, enjoying that in the last decade, can only look to restaurants make their mull and a college.

Adam Mackinn, a law student here, visited the tourism plan, which the said could bring income to local businesses. "Maybe after they have gone digital today," he said.

But a group of homogenous business owners were apprehensive about the tourism proposal and preferred the way, laid back tourism.

"We're close enough to Colombo, Singapore or Manila if we wanted to go to the malls, so why not just keep Los Baños the way it is?" said another businessman.

His statement, the local government and the mayor's father and former Philippine Investment and Gaming Corp. chair Elmer Geronzo, would lead the Los Baños Tourism Council.

Los Baños will still offer tax incentives to investors and tighten its security measures, following the recent issue of terrorism and kidnappings in the town.

Special economic zone

Inside the university property, UPLB has sought accreditation from the Philippine Economic Zone Authority (PEZA) to establish a Special Economic Zone (SEZ).

The SEZ will cover 60,000 hectares to be subdivided into an information technology hub (IT-3 hub) and an agro-industrial park (AI-3 hub). It will rise as a portion of the 131.8-ha in Batangas-Palawan-Samarang rebar in as the UPLB Science and Technology Park, where the Ager facility is currently located.

The municipal government is a member in May 2011 endorsed UPLB's application, which, it said, would bring business and job opportunities to the residents.

Also, it said, development management offices of the UPLB Center for Technology Transfer and Entrepreneurship (CTTE), and the university "hope to secure within five" the environmental compliance certificate for the agro-industrial park, the last remaining requirement before the town becomes the proposed manufacturing hub.

UPLB is hoping to get the President's approval before the year ends.

180 technologies

The UPLB Science and Technology Park primarily hosts four industries (IT, food, biotech, and agro-industry), PhilHealth Inc. (the national health insurer), BioLink Corp. (the biotech incubator), and the Pioneer Hi-Bred Philippines, a subsidiary of the multinational hybrid rice research institution (Africa).

But it declared a SEZ, "the location can take advantage of the land and services resources the area offers (such as income tax holidays and tax-free importation of equipment)," also said UPLB for its part use provide industrial expertise to investors. "Given its proximity to UPLB, the university's policies on environment protection and waste management."

"The biotech developed inside (UPLB) will come in a second priority (level). UPLB will remain where the existing would be located," he said.

Also said UPLB has around 300 technologies developed by its own professors and researchers. He said the university targets industries in the fields of biotechnology, food processing, agriculture, food and dairy processing, engineering, and information technology with applications in life science. He said the companies must follow the university's policies on environment protection and waste management.

"UPLB will not cease to be an academic institution (as) all houses shall be used to strengthen the academic programs and spreading of the facilities," also said. He said attracting businesses to set up their facilities here would bring jobs and economic welfare to the community.

2012 RED ORCHID Awardees

More and more provinces, municipalities, cities, workplaces and health facilities are now joining the 100% Tobacco-Free Environment bandwagon. The number of 100% tobacco-free environments is fast growing. It's a promising sign that more entities are now making measures to protect people from the hazards of tobacco smoke and exposure to secondhand smoke.

To honor these institutions and agencies, the Department of Health has been conferring them these past three years with the ultimate symbol of a tobacco-free world: the Red Orchid Awards. The number of 100% tobacco-free environments is fast growing. In 2010, there were 8. Then in 2011, there were 30. And this year there are 66 Red Orchid Awardees.

Five cities and municipalities were recognized as Hall of Fame Awardees for winning the Red Orchid Award for three consecutive years since its inception in 2010. Congratulations to the hall of fame LGUs.

Bottlenecks from flyover repair await school start

CITY OF MALACCA—Heavy traffic flow will grow as schoolchildren leave next month when they return to classes because a damaged section of the Malacca Flyover has been closed for repairs, officials announced.

Mayor Chandra Sekitani said the Council later will call the Department of Public Works and Highways (DPWH) for a bid to close it down because the agency would no longer guarantee its safety when it is fixed.

The flyover, located at a major intersection along the North-South Highway, has been closed to traffic since May 12. It is expected to be fixed within the DPWH's fiscal year.

But the DPWH is not yet ready to allow traffic to resume on the flyover, and the agency has not yet decided when the repairs will be completed.

The flyover was built in 2004. Before, the bridge was a simple concrete bridge.

The DPWH is now in the process of preparing a proposal to build a new bridge.

PH firms get positive outlook from Moody's

Higher credit ratings expected within 12 months

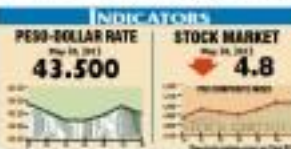

By Michelle K. Barro and Paolo G. Montolio

MOODY'S Investors Service improved its outlook on the country's four biggest banks from "stable" to "positive," indicating a probability of better credit ratings in the near term given their generally sound financial performance.

The banks given a "positive" outlook included Bank of the Philippine Islands, Banco de Cebu, Metropolitan Bank and Trust Co. and Land Bank of the Philippines.

A "positive" outlook means an existing credit rating may be upgraded within the short term if favorable trends are sustained.

Moody's also revised its rating outlook for Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co. (PLDT) after the debt was upgraded due to the country's sovereign debt was in for another upgrade. PLDT's long-term foreign currency debt is currently rated at investment grade.

Dragonair starts Clark-HK service

CLARK, Philippines—Dragonair began its daily flight from the Clark International Airport (CIA) here to Hong Kong on Tuesday with 165 passengers on board. The Airbus A350-900 took off at 11:20 a.m.

The maiden flight signaled more flight connections for the CIA, according to Airline Asia Airlines president and chief executive officer of Asia Central CIA Corp. (ACIC).

"Dragonair is a renowned China company. The airline has routes to mainland China and to more than 100 destinations all over the world," Laramba said.

Dragonair is a wholly owned subsidiary of Cathay Pacific Airways.

Locations that the airline from budget airlines, legacy carriers were aiming to fly to via CIA, Airport Express of Philippine Airlines (PAL) there were used.

South East Asian Airlines (SEAR) recently launched its flight to Manila to fly to and Singapore, Bangkok, Hong Kong and San Francisco. Another flight, Singapore Central Airlines.

BSP seen maintaining policy rates

Tightening may be done in second quarter of 2013

By Russell W. Domingo

A PHILIPPINE BUREAU OF RESERVE BANK (BSP) announced in global demand for Philippine export products may trigger domestic growth and prompt monetary authorities to keep policy rates unchanged until the second quarter of 2013, according to Edil Corp.

The Singapore-based financial services provider said in a research note that a historic inflation situation also contributed to its decision to write its policy rate unchanged for the rest of the year and would be triggered by the first quarter of next year.

With the drop in oil prices in the previous weeks, BSP Group executives in Philippine inflation forecast for 2012 to 1.5 percent from a previous rate of 2.0 percent.

"Although the figure is likely to rise up to 1.5 percent, it is still low and it was not clear whether the policy rate will be adjusted within the second half's target range of 2 percent to 3 percent," Edil said.

Also, the company said risk to the growth of gross domestic product had been building up in the light of the weakening local economic conditions.

Earlier this week, BSP and Philippine BSP might have given by 0.5 percent in the first quarter, given the improvement in exports, government expenditure and inflation of investment.

A, however, said that the risk to the growth of gross domestic product had been building up in the light of the weakening local economic conditions.

The group said the target to discontinue demand in the early months of this year could be an indicator of whether the rate will be adjusted within the second quarter.

"In fact, although we expect a strong first-quarter GDP growth, the rate will not be adjusted within the second quarter," Edil said.

PSALM to bid out Naga power complex operation contract

By Amy R. Borne

CHIEF EXECUTIVE Officer of Power Sector Assets and Liability Management Corp. (PSALM) is seeking offers for the operation and maintenance of the 146-megawatt Naga power complex in Cebu, while it awaits the decision of the Joint Congressional Power Commission on whether the contracted capacity of the plant will be purchased.

In a statement, PSALM president and CEO Francisco B. Iñiguez said the agency would bid out a one-year 1940-million operation and maintenance service contract (OMSC) on June 27. A two-year bid schedule will be held in June 8 for increased capacity.

To qualify, prospective bidders must have completed a contract similar to the Naga-OMSC in the past five years from the date of submission and receipt of bids. Prospective bidders are required to pay a non-refundable fee of P5,000 for the bidding documents.

The first attempt to bid out the Naga complex-OMSC on Feb. 27 failed as no single bid was submitted during the auction.

Following the rejection of the rebidding for a second round, the company is now planning to bid out the Naga complex-OMSC on June 27.

one-year OMSC, PSALM entered into a six-month contract with MTC Power Corp. to operate the contracted capacity of the Naga power complex. The contract will expire on Sept. 21, 2013.

PSALM National Power Corp. and MTC Power Corp. had a similar agreement with MTC Power Corp. for the operation and maintenance of the Naga power complex. The contract will expire on Sept. 21, 2013.

The Naga complex is composed of three thermal power plants that use a combination of diesel, bunker oil and coal-fired power. There are the coal-fired 54-MW Cebu thermal power plant 1 and 54.4-MW Cebu thermal power plant 2, and the 39-MW Cebu thermal power plant 3.

Sun Life vows to support PH infra program

By Paula C. Manzanillo

SEATTLE, Washington—Sun Life of Canada, whose local unit was recently awarded the Philippine Infrastructure Program (PIP), has pledged to support the program's infrastructure program by providing a substantial portion of its assets to the PIP.

Sun Life's executive officer David Gomez said in a recent report that the company's PIP assets would be used to support the PIP's infrastructure program.

"The Philippines, like most countries in the world, is facing a lot of challenges in the infrastructure sector," Gomez said in an interview.

"The assets that we are providing to the PIP are not just for the infrastructure program, but also for the infrastructure program," Gomez said.

Gomez said the recent acquisition of assets from the PIP's infrastructure program will be used to support the PIP's infrastructure program.

efforts on infrastructure spending was a good sign that infrastructure was moving forward and that the government was committed to the program.

He said the provided new investment opportunities for the PIP's infrastructure program.

"We can see that we are interested in projects with long-term value, those with 20 to 30-year maturity. We have been ready to take the investment in those longer-term infrastructure projects," Gomez said.

Sun Life Financial Philippines has about P130 billion to P150 billion worth of assets. Gomez said the company could support as much as 15 percent of the PIP's infrastructure program.

He said increased investments in infrastructure like the Philippines was part of the company's growth strategy. Sun Life also said it was the first major pillar that the company would reach out to the government.

The other three pillars were the company's Canadian and American insurance operations, and its overall asset management business.

"By dedicating Asia to one of these pillars, we are saying that we are supporting the infrastructure program," Gomez said. Last year, Sun Life sold 150 million Canadian dollars worth of investments to its first Asian market such as the Philippines, Hong Kong, Indonesia, China and India. About 40 percent of the sale was from the Philippines.

By 2013, Sun Life expects to sell 200 million Canadian dollars worth of investments, more than double the 2012 level. All this growth, Gomez said, would come from the company's first Asian market.

He said the company was also planning to set up operations in other Southeast Asian markets to further boost growth prospects.

Globe Business and GSIS: A successful partnership that benefits over 1.7M stakeholders

The Government Service Insurance System (GSIS), the social insurance institution that secures the future of all employees of the Philippine government, has been in a strong partnership with Globe Telecom for more than 10 years now. With ICT solutions spanning voice, mobile and data connectivity, one of the most innovative projects initiated by Globe and GSIS is the implementation of the GSIS Wireless Automated Processing System (GWAPS) kiosks.

GWAPS is a secure system that performs remote, paperless transactions. A GWAPS kiosk resembles an ATM and adopts world-class technologies such as RFID, biometrics and virtual private networks. GSIS members can carry out various transactions through the GWAPS, including loan applications and checking of personal records. The easy-to-use kiosks are powered by Globe Business, the group in Globe Telecom that serves the leading small, medium and large enterprises in the Philippines.

"We are pleased to partner with Globe through the GWAPS kiosks project. Our 750 kiosks deployed across the country offer greater convenience to our 1.7 million members and pensioners. They can apply for their loans, check their records or request to update their accounts, without the need to visit our offices," President and General Manager Robert G. Vergara said.

The GSIS also plans to deploy an additional 350 units within the year, including the rapid deployment type, which can be quickly set up in typhoon-affected areas.

For his part, Head of Globe Business, Jesus C. Romero said, "We are delighted to be in a decade-long, strategic partnership with GSIS. Providing innovative services to the public has always been one of the key initiatives of Globe, and we want to help GSIS realize its new slogan 'Masasagutan ng Laglag-Bayan' by delivering efficient and effective solutions to the nation."

Globe Business has been successfully collaborating with various government offices such as GSIS in employing relevant ICT solutions that enhance the level of service given to the public sector. Globe works with government institutions in order to improve the quality of services and increase operational efficiencies in enforcing public policies.

As a full-service ICT provider, Globe Business understands the needs of various small, medium and large enterprises in the Philippines and provides them with a comprehensive range of solutions relevant to their specific needs. This suite of solutions comprises mobile, wireless, broadband, data connections, Internet, managed services and IT-enabling services. Young students learn in Korea—fried tofu with plum sauce and other specialties

By Yvonne Bago-Reyes

When time, charm and charisma, David Sison Antonio-Salazar, 20, and Michael Chong, 27, undeniably possess qualities of a diligent student who works extra hard to make a life long dream...to become a chef.

Salazar and Chong are students of culinary arts at the Misericordia University in Quezon, South Korea. They are two of the top students of the Center for Culinary Arts-Misericordia (CCA) that sent them to Korea to do a rotational exchange students.

Salazar and Chong worked for the school, and got paid while they studied. They flew to Korea to study Global Korean Culinary Arts for nine months with their school sponsorship.

Along the way, they are expected to graduate CCA and Philippine cuisine. They've been studying Korean history and food since March 13.

"It's been a blessing that we got this from an scholarship," says Salazar, who was born in a Filipino town with Spanish ancestry and a Chinese dad. "It was quite scary at first, with the new surroundings and all, but I was extremely excited at the same time."

"That is my biggest issue to be away from home," says Chong, whose parents are both Chinese from Fujian province. "Yes, I believe this experience will teach us to become more independent and self-reliant."

Both students compare Misericordia University at the University of the Philippines—Jingo school, lots of students from different social classes, and with big dormitories on campus. Their dorm is just a few minutes walk to Misericordia Culinary Arts

Condo cooking for two

Small space,
big taste:
Cooking in a condo kitchen

By Tracy Parks
Contributor

WHEN YOU COOK in a small space, you need to be smart. With a few simple strategies, you can keep a cramped kitchen from putting a crimp in your eating. What's not to love about this? Do things! With creative thinking, you can discover the advantages of a compact kitchen. But even so, the number of available condo kitchens to give the same dimensions are limited, well, more compact.

Now buildings are doing some interesting things to make better use of the advantages of a compact kitchen. But even so, the number of available condo kitchens to give the same dimensions are limited, well, more compact.

The average two-bedroom is a sizeable kitchen may not be as big as the average, compared to 100 sq ft for units in older buildings. In order to make the space feel more open, many developers have decided to make something to the kitchen. And only one of the big downsides of condo living is a convenient kitchen location and many are close to a variety of food outlets, from coffee offering coffee and croissants for on-the-go sandwiches.

THIS IS BREWED REFRESHMENT!

A NEW ADVENTURE IN REFRESHMENT LANDS IN MANILA

Roots Ginger Brew, a new sparkling beverage brewed in Australia, has arrived in the Philippines, providing Pinoy's with a wildly refreshing and healthy drinking experience.

While ice cold, fizzy soft drinks are considered to be the most preferred in the country, the wave of wellness trends have prompted the health-conscious to look for more wholesome options. Good thing there's Roots Ginger Brew, which recently premiered here in Manila. Roots is very much like the ginger, also popular in Australia. Actually, love their drink as much as Pinoy's love their soft drinks.

Roots is different because it is made from 100% real and fresh ginger that's masterfully brewed to unlock that distinct and full-bodied taste. The brewing process also releases key components, which help soothe an itchy throat and promote good digestion. So no artificial colors or flavors here. Just real ginger with all its benefits transformed into a bubbly and healthy beverage.

Roots truly is a new alternative made to satisfy our country's unique refreshment.

Roots Ginger Brew is now available in leading supermarkets and convenience stores in Metro Manila. It is available in 330ml bottles for only P21.00 (SRP).

The Cake Club goes beyond the cakes

Be Using C_p Power

THE CASE CLUB is not all about cakes. It has not only good cakes and desserts but also a proper meal.

The new branch at Southern High School Central serves road food.

The Cake Club started out as Diamond Dave's party shop. A kiosk was later opened at Foster Plant Mill at Rockwell for those craving for the bakery's popular cheese made and stain cabinet. Now in the Tropic branch, The Cake Club has become a full service restaurant.

Diamond Hand's executive chef Nicholas Inquiere describes the menu as "intimate, honest." It is lean and edited, and includes well-thought-out starters and mains, desserts and ice creams. Drinks include Mielago coffee, Hojibon Tea, beer and milkshakes.

Diamond Hotel president Cecilia Ray told The Ocala-Week—the restaurant was established to make sure people enjoyed the culture at Diamond Hotel. According to Diamond Hotel GM Vanessa Swaney-ox, some critics are "beaux-fleurs from Christie's. Diamond's is à la mode restaurant."

Slow-roasted beef belly

We recently had lunch at The Lake Club and had for starters the Heated Red Beet Soup with goat cheese, green apples and roasted walnuts, and Hubert's spicy Tomato Soup with tomato jam and fresh basil.

SPAMMY run-in-garment sandwich filled with cucumbers, lettuce and hot sauce

Red lentils may be supplied once a week; try this soup if you want something new. The tomato soup is a safer but quite

There are two salad choices. One is the GMI Salad (GMI is for general manager) served on a crumbly pita-bread basket. It has pan-seared mushrooms, baby greens and shelled vinegrets. The other is Grilled Chicken and Goat Cheese Toss Salad with white-wine vinegrette dressing.

The five-star dinner, chef Suzanne Geronzi commands the New England Beef Belly—roast beef slices with honey mustard baby carrots, brown rice and a dollop of horseradish cream.

This would like the slightly sweet, Roast Chicken, half-chicken with a filling of harvest roots, mushrooms and potatoes.

Non-resort / season

Non-meat eaters may try the Italian-inspired, juicy salmon steak with crisp shrimp served on a bed of spinach and linguine with tomato sauce. Other veggie choices are the fish-less burger with goat cheese sauce, and spaghetti on baked zucchini, and the Pacific Northwest Coque à la pêche.

The Lake Club also offers special sandwiches and burgers such as the Grilled Braten, homemade corned-beef sandwich with sauerkraut, corned-beef chow and thousand-island dressing. Or may be too strong) may be paired with the San-Dan's Mountain Symphony, a spicy cool and moist flavored pasta in cream sauce.

These burgers (which are quite big, and

Sauces making chocolate cakes

The strength of the Cake Club is still the dessert selection. The inviting red display which greets you at the show shows off delicious mini cakes. We love the luscious moose cake with raspberry, butter and rose essence, and the Super Moose Cheesecake Cake that melts into a smooth chocolate cream in the mouth. Fish have five senses, too.

Nonvascular plants are bryophytes.

Sneak peek of 'The Artist,' 'Captive' for local cineastes

Award winners and festival darlings are featured in the Citi-Rustan's French film fest at Shangri-La Plaza

By Rapist Santiago Jr.

AT THE Citi-Rustan's French Film Festival, now on its 17th year, will present 17 films, deemed by award winners and international film regulars, at the Shangri-La Plaza Mall from June 7 to 17. (The closing of the fest is on June 22 to 23 at the Ayala Center.)

The audience of the French fest has been growing steadily through the years. Mares Maresland, an international artist of the French fest, has related that last year's edition gathered "15,000 viewers in 14 days."

Organizers hope that this year's fest will attract premium audience—especially those French Film and Festival France have drafted a formidable lineup of contemporary French films.

"Some of the films were released within the last three years," explained Christian Meyer, coordinator for Cooperation and Cultural Affairs. "We have selected different kinds of films, from romance genre (Dance, coming romance, etc.), to suspense."

Most of these French filmmakers Jacques Offen, Jacques Brault, Anne Glat, François Ozon) have made waves in a lot of French film festivals, Berlin and Venice, and more.

Some of the films have won in the International (Olivier "Le Refuge"), Oscar (Katharine Isabelle and Kevin Connolly "The Girl on the Train") and Cannes (Emmanuel Beryll's "The Artist").

Most-awarded

But the most awarded and acclaimed movie in the list is the opening film, Michel Hazanavicius' "The Artist"—winner of one Cannes honor, three Golden Globes, five Oscars and six Critics' prizes. It's a love story set in the 1920s, starring Jean Dujardin and Bérénice Bejo.

Organizers expect that "The Artist" will be one of the most popular films in the fest. But why because the fest is for free, but because it might be the only opportunity for the public to catch the Oscar winner.

It will also showcase whether "The Artist" will have a theatrical run in the country. The fest is opening on June 7 in association. The organizers wish to remind the public that people will be accommodated on a first-come, first-served basis in the public screenings.

Also scheduled during the fest is an international music preview on June 9 of Brice Marden's "Caprice." The country's music is this year's theme too. Top billed by
